

Ypres Salient:

We focus on the importance of the landscape and find out about the strategic places on both sides.

We drive first to the South of Ypres and visit some sites from Messines Ridge where the Anzacs and British fought side by side.

In Kemmel, we find out about the relation between the landscape, the geography, the geology and the position of the front line and life on or behind the front line.

We visit the Bayernwald German trench system, British dugouts and craters who are the result of the mines explosions during the battle of Messines ridge.

We see the site where Christmas Truce took place at Ploegsteert.

Visit of Hill 60, site who is still untouched after WWI

We visit Hooze Crater museum and have lunch (included in the price)

At Essex farm we visit a dugout, used as triage for the wounded, where Jon McCray wrote his famous poem: In Flanders Fields.

In Polygon Wood we understand the sacrifice of the British, New Zealanders and Australians and visit the memorials.

We visit Passchendaele and understand the difficulty to get to the higher ground, visit the biggest Commonwealth cemetery of the world: Tyne Cot and realize the importance of the lost generation.

Tyne Cot in Passchendaele

Irish Peace park in Messines

Bayernwald German trenches

Museum Hooze Crater